Work smarter with insights into your data

WHAT IS THE PROBLEM?

Your agency spends so much time responding to incidents and events. Without insights into patterns or trends, how can you take your efforts to the next level? Your agency wants to be more effective, to strategize, prioritize and place units and responders where they can prevent crime or accidents. The public wants to know where crime is happening and what you're doing about it. You need tools to make sense out of all the daily noise and data.

WHAT IS THE SOLUTION?

CentralSquare Analytics Enterprise brings all your data together for relevant insights into your mission and processes. Analytics tools tie into your CAD and RMS system, allowing you to dig deeper. Officers on the street and command staff can use reporting tools, mapping-based analysis, and charts and graphs for intelligence led policing, hotspot monitoring and more efficient response plans. Search data across CentralSquare's national database for investigative insights into crimes that cross your jurisdictional boundaries. Share your data with the public through CrimeMapping, a public website where citizens can access crime information.
