

HUMAN CAPITAL MANAGEMENT

Simplify the unwieldy task of managing your most important asset, your people.

WHAT IS THE PROBLEM?

Local government agencies are feeling the weight of being asked to work more efficiently, think more strategically, and deliver faster and better outcomes. As budgets shrink, human resource professionals at local agencies are under enormous pressure. One-third of their workforce is projected to retire in the next five years requiring them not only to recruit replacements but also to on-board and train them as well. It's a daunting task further compounded by out-of-date systems and manual processes that are time consuming and error prone.

WHAT IS THE SOLUTION?

With so much work being handled by HR teams, agencies must empower their teams with strategic approaches to getting things done. Smart tools that automate and streamline daily tasks are critical to maximizing existing team resources. By using web-based employee self-service tools in CentralSquare Human Capital Management, HR teams solve the problem of having to print or mail check stubs and tax forms, while greatly reducing the number of calls employees make to HR for information change requests. As a result, HR departments transform time-consuming, recurring functions—from finding and hiring the best talent to automating payroll, employee services, and regulatory reports—into streamlined processes and operations that enable teams to get more done in less time.

Empowered by a smart, agile solution, HR teams deliver better performance and help make everyone's job more manageable.
